

The Ecology of Wellness

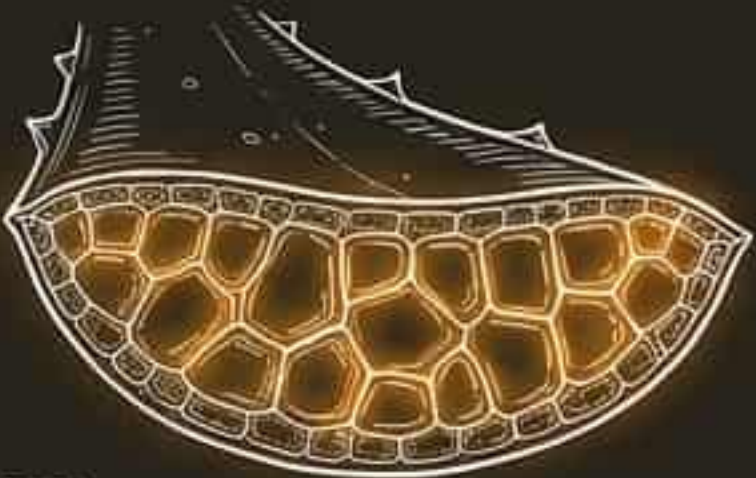

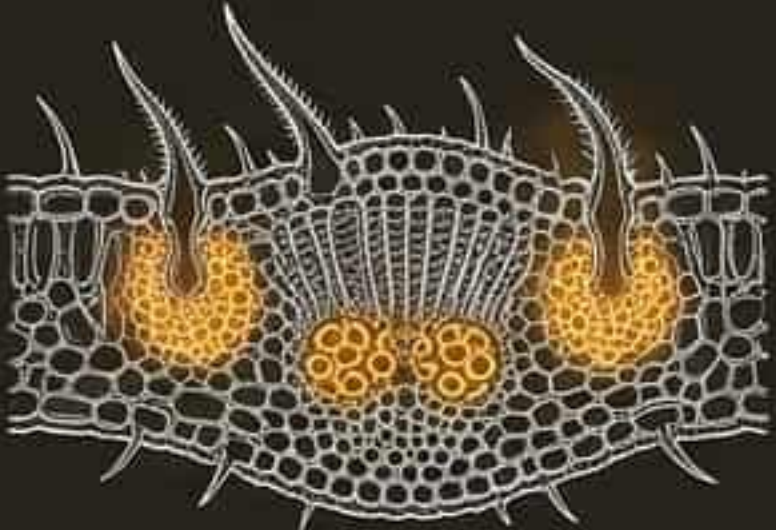

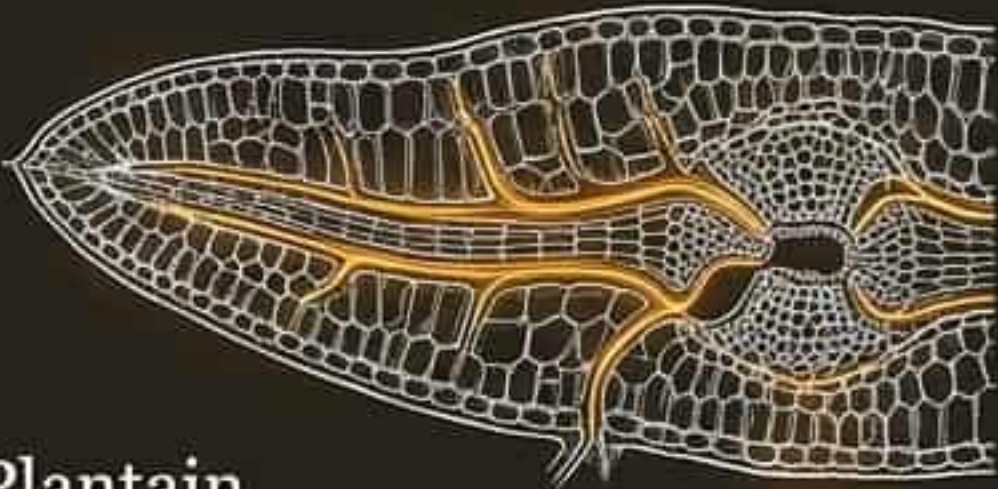

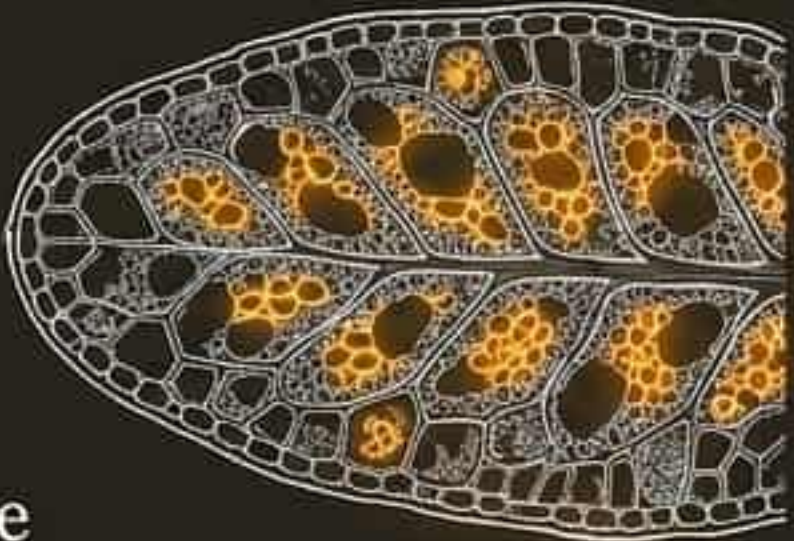

Designing a Regenerative
Engine of Vitality

The Central Thesis: Good Food. Strong Bodies. Happy Hearts.

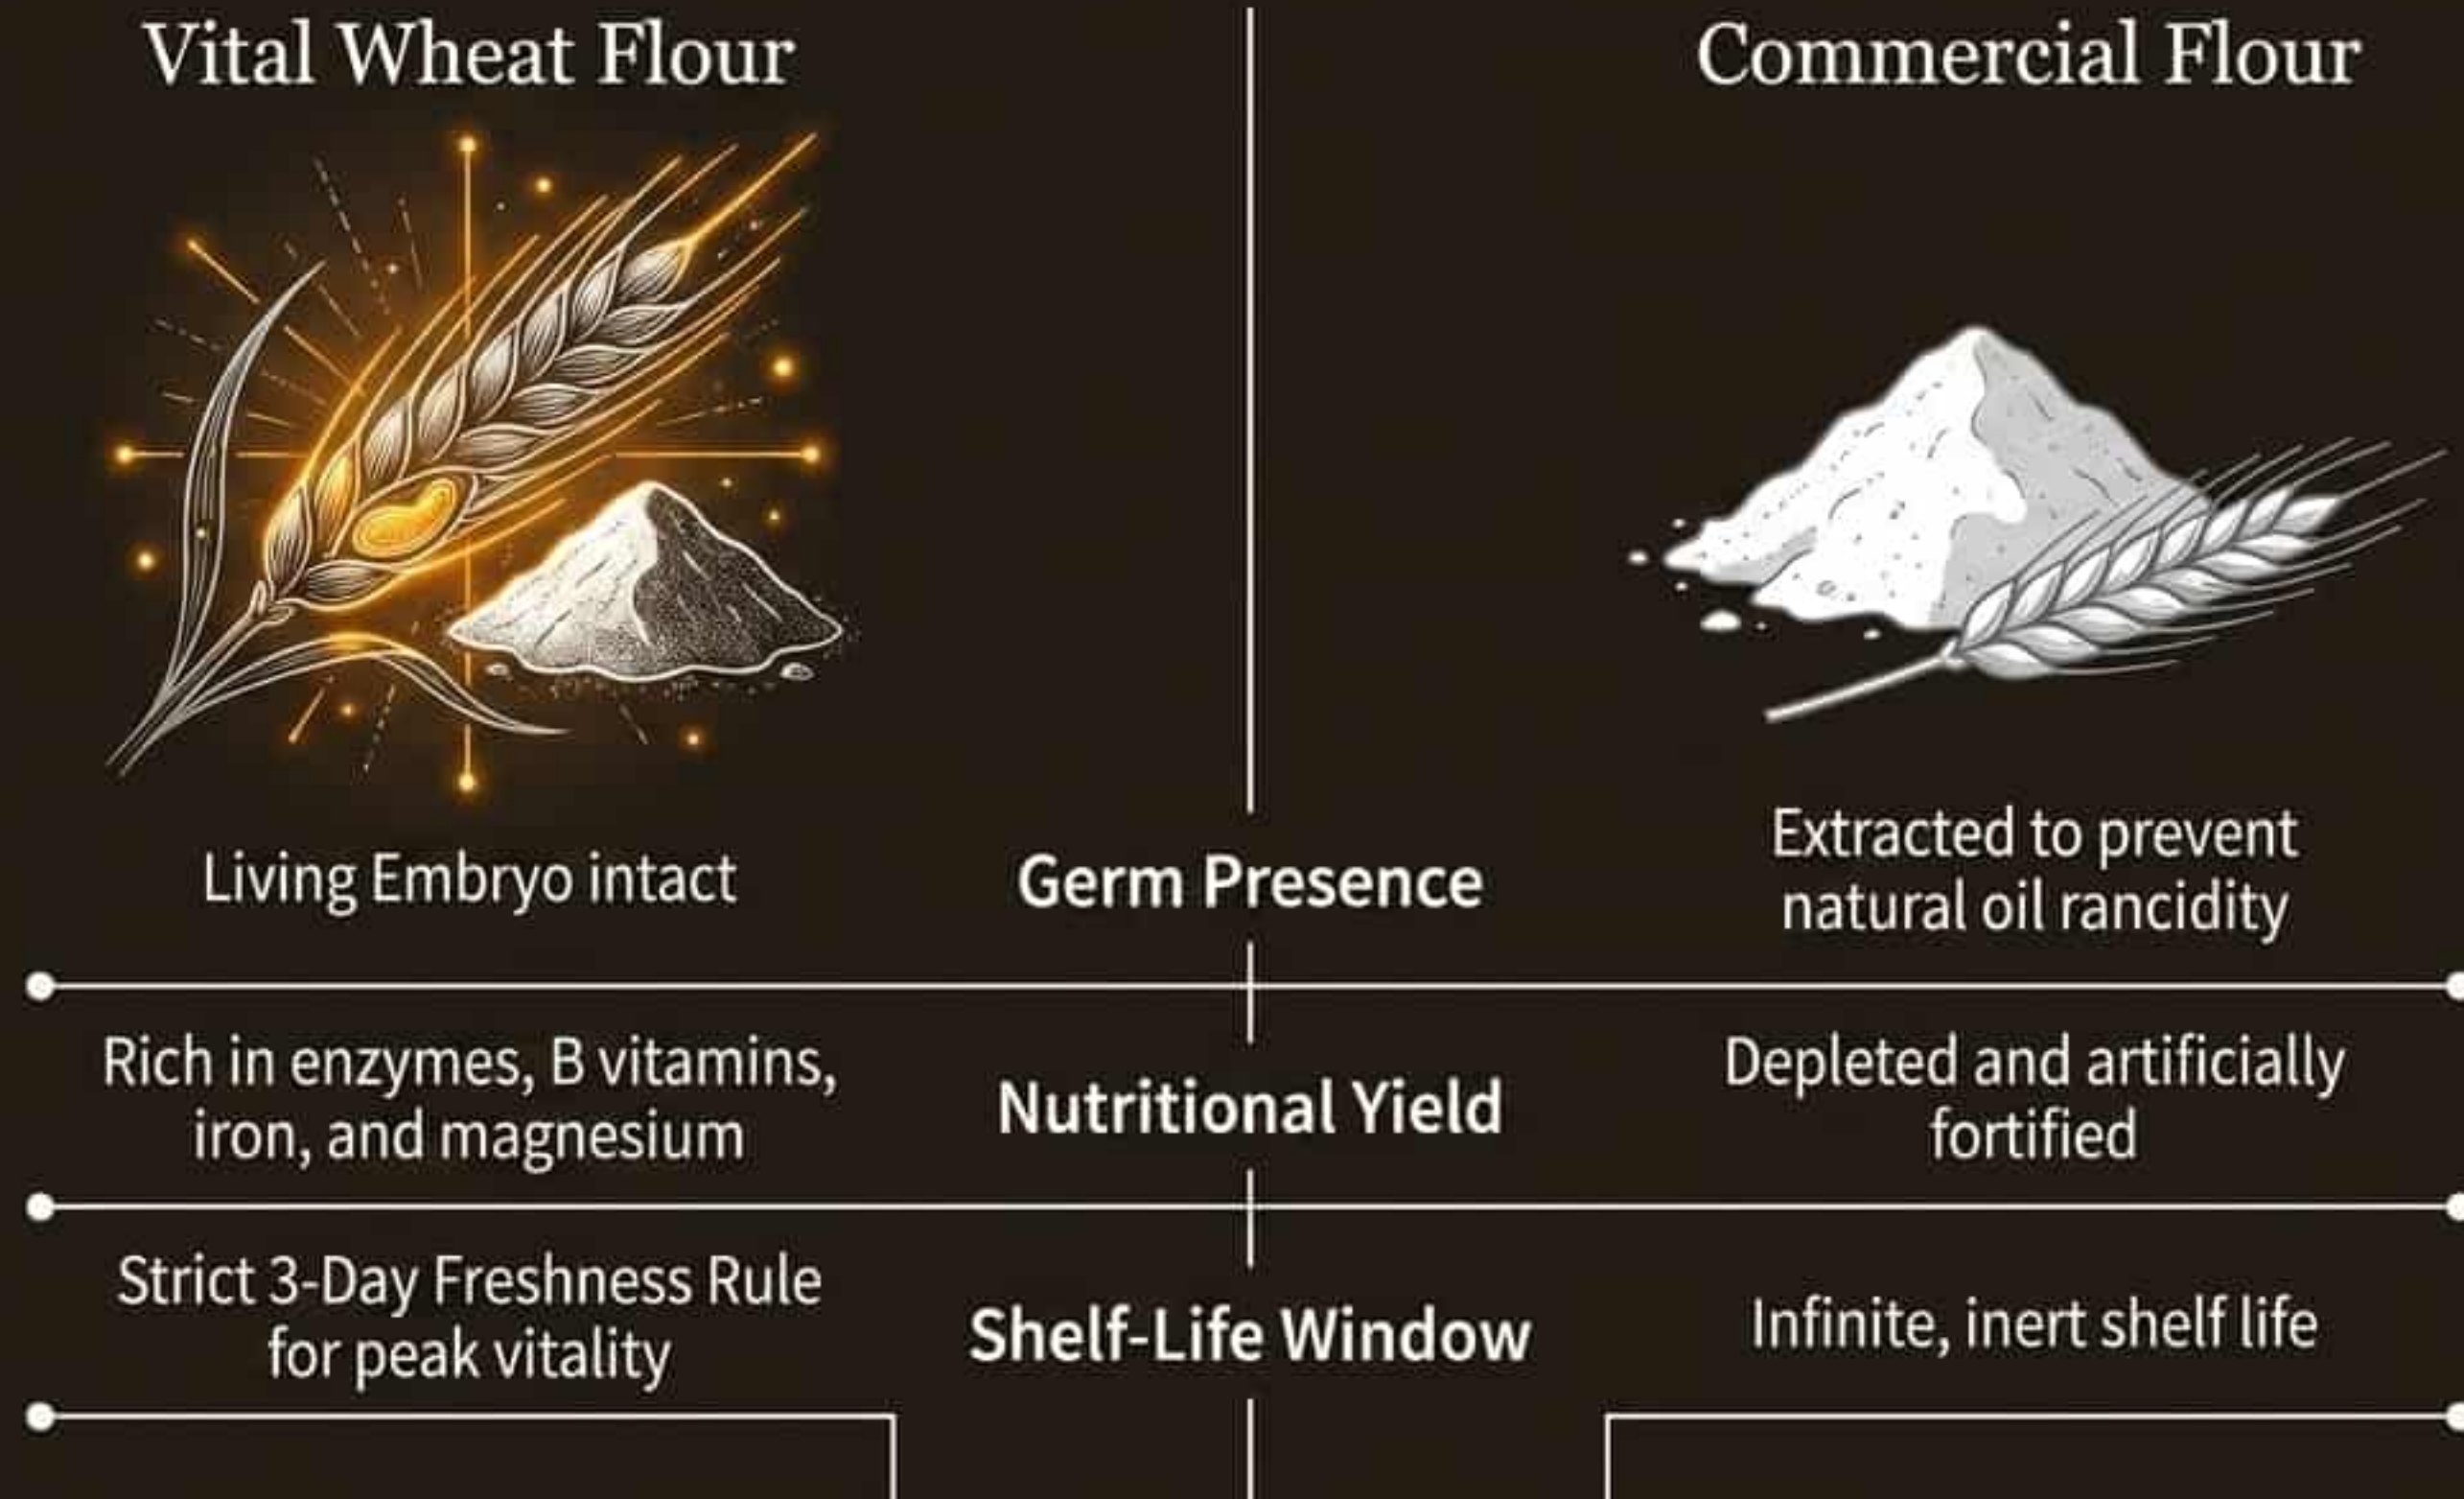

The Pharmacy of Nature: The Botanical Arsenal

The Grain Diagnostic: Living Vitality vs. Commercial Yield

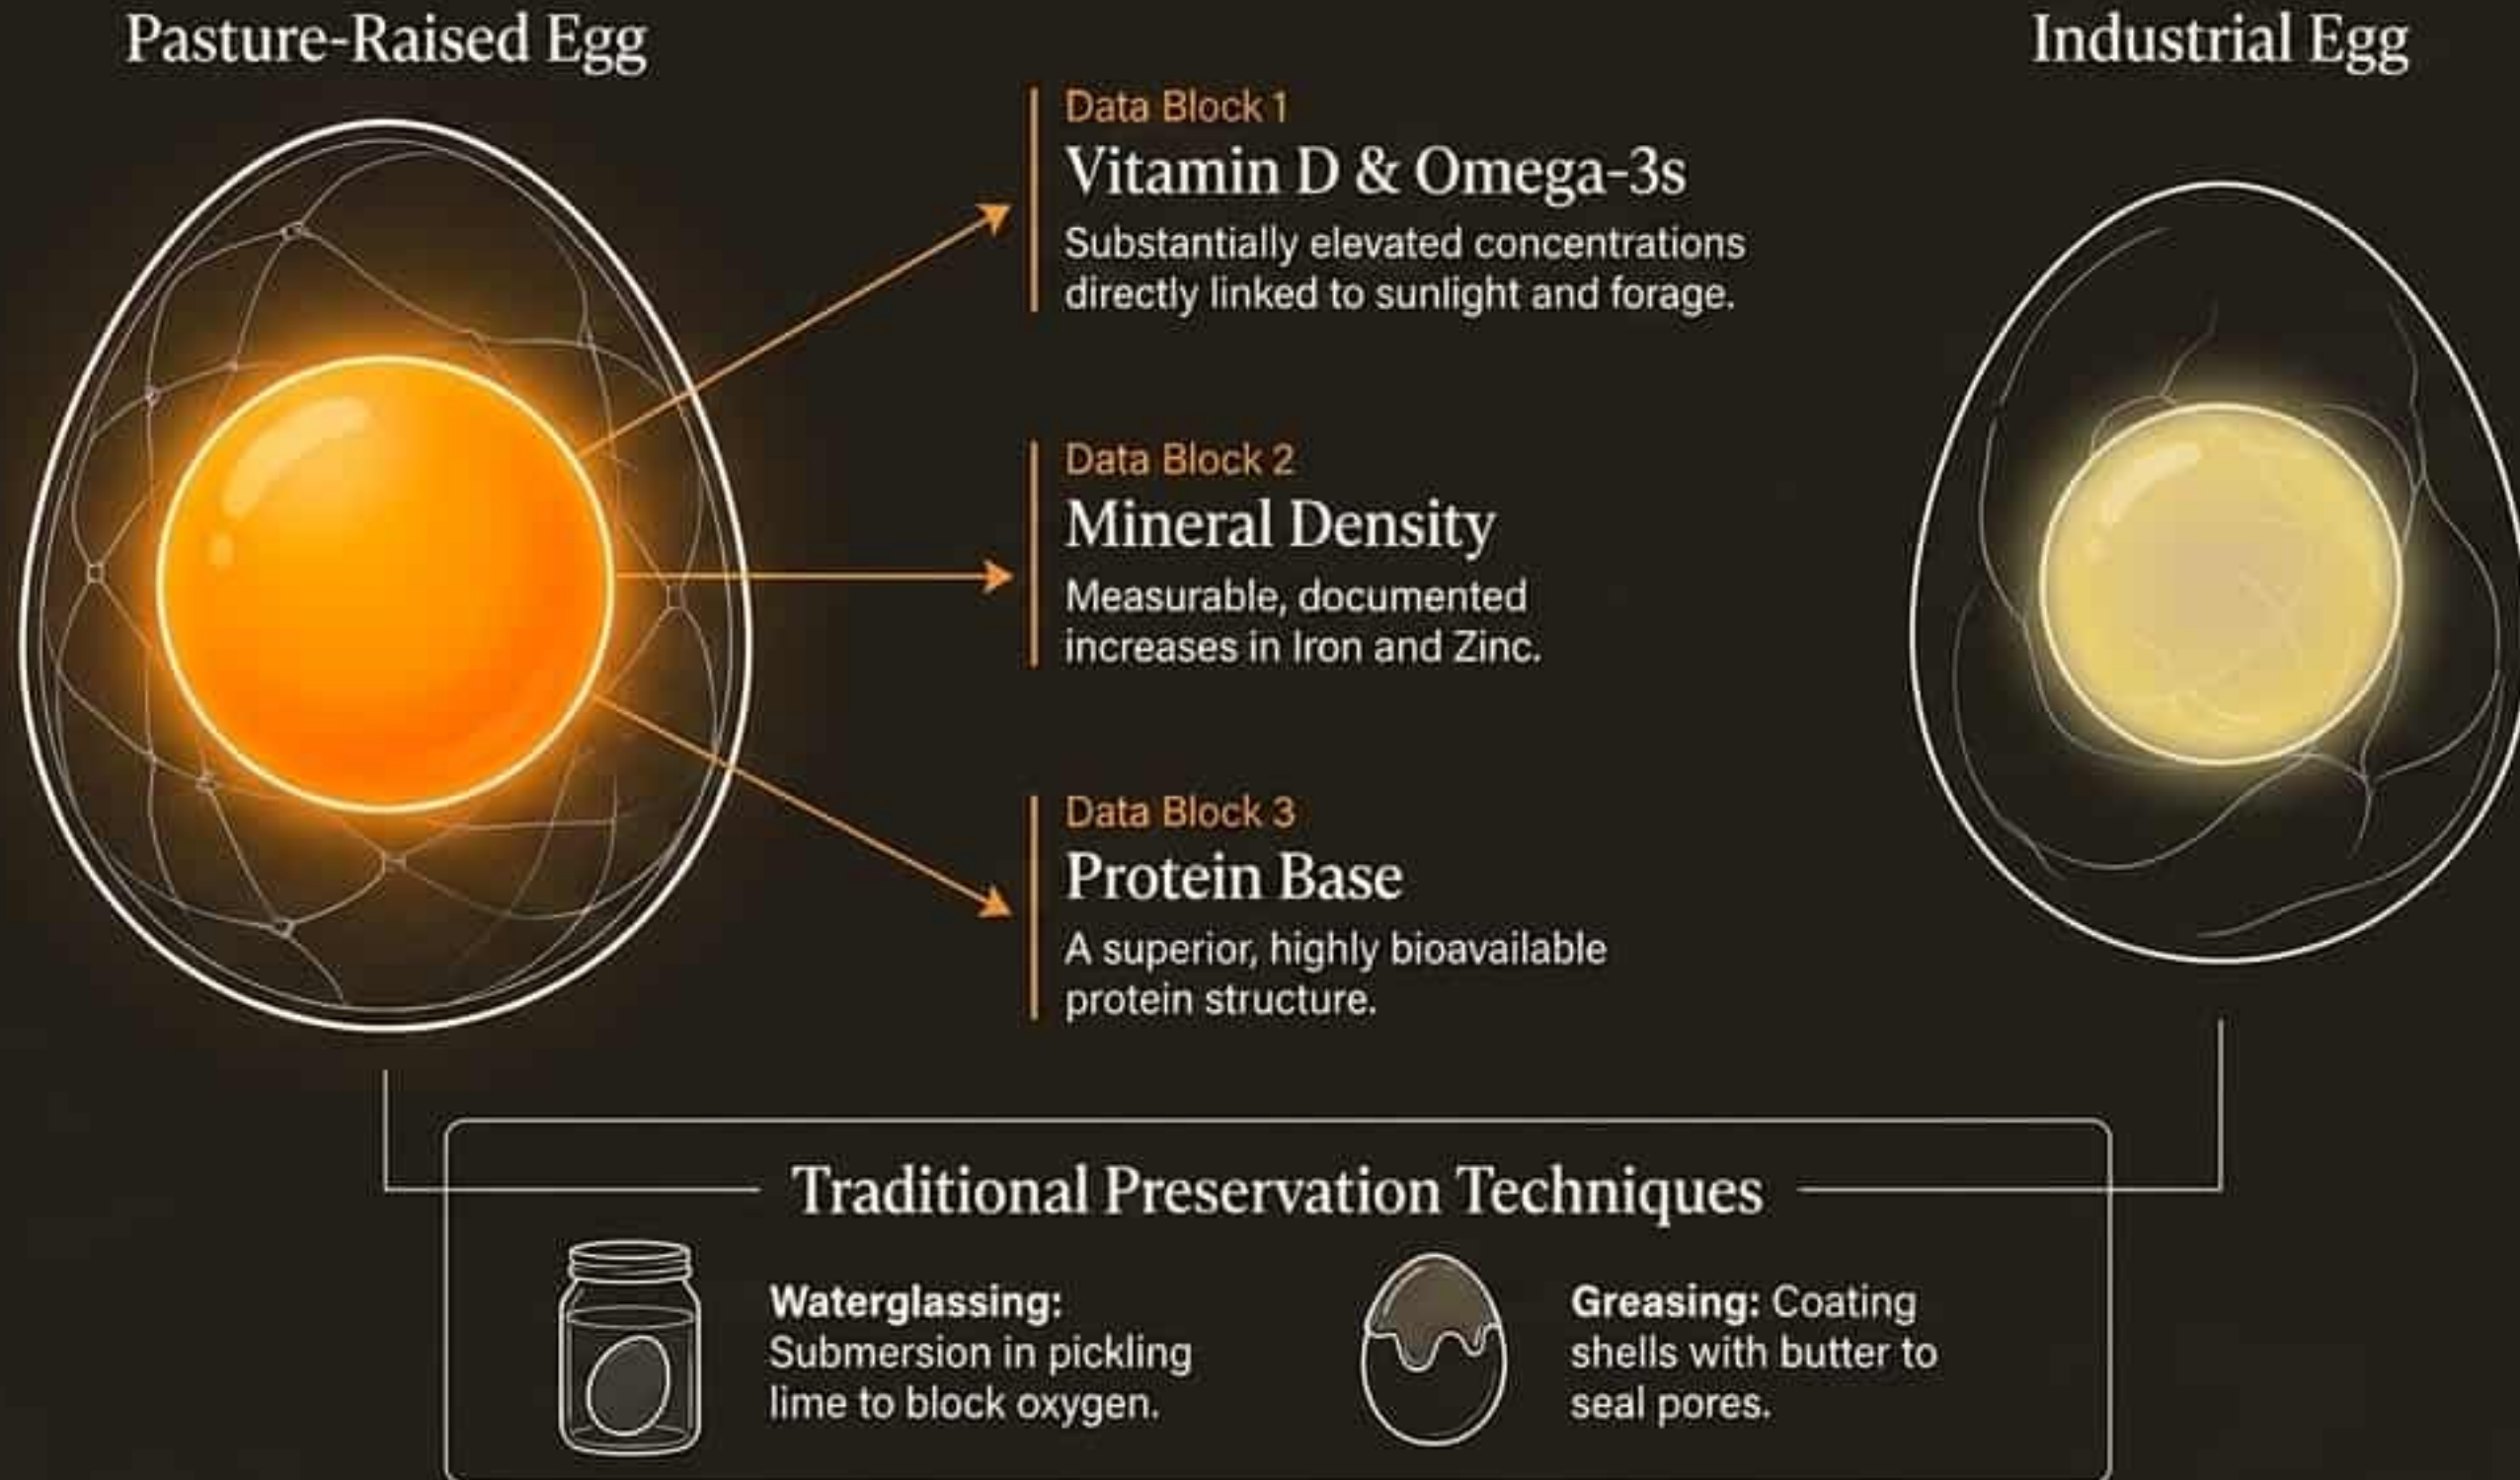

The Anatomy of Wholewheat Health

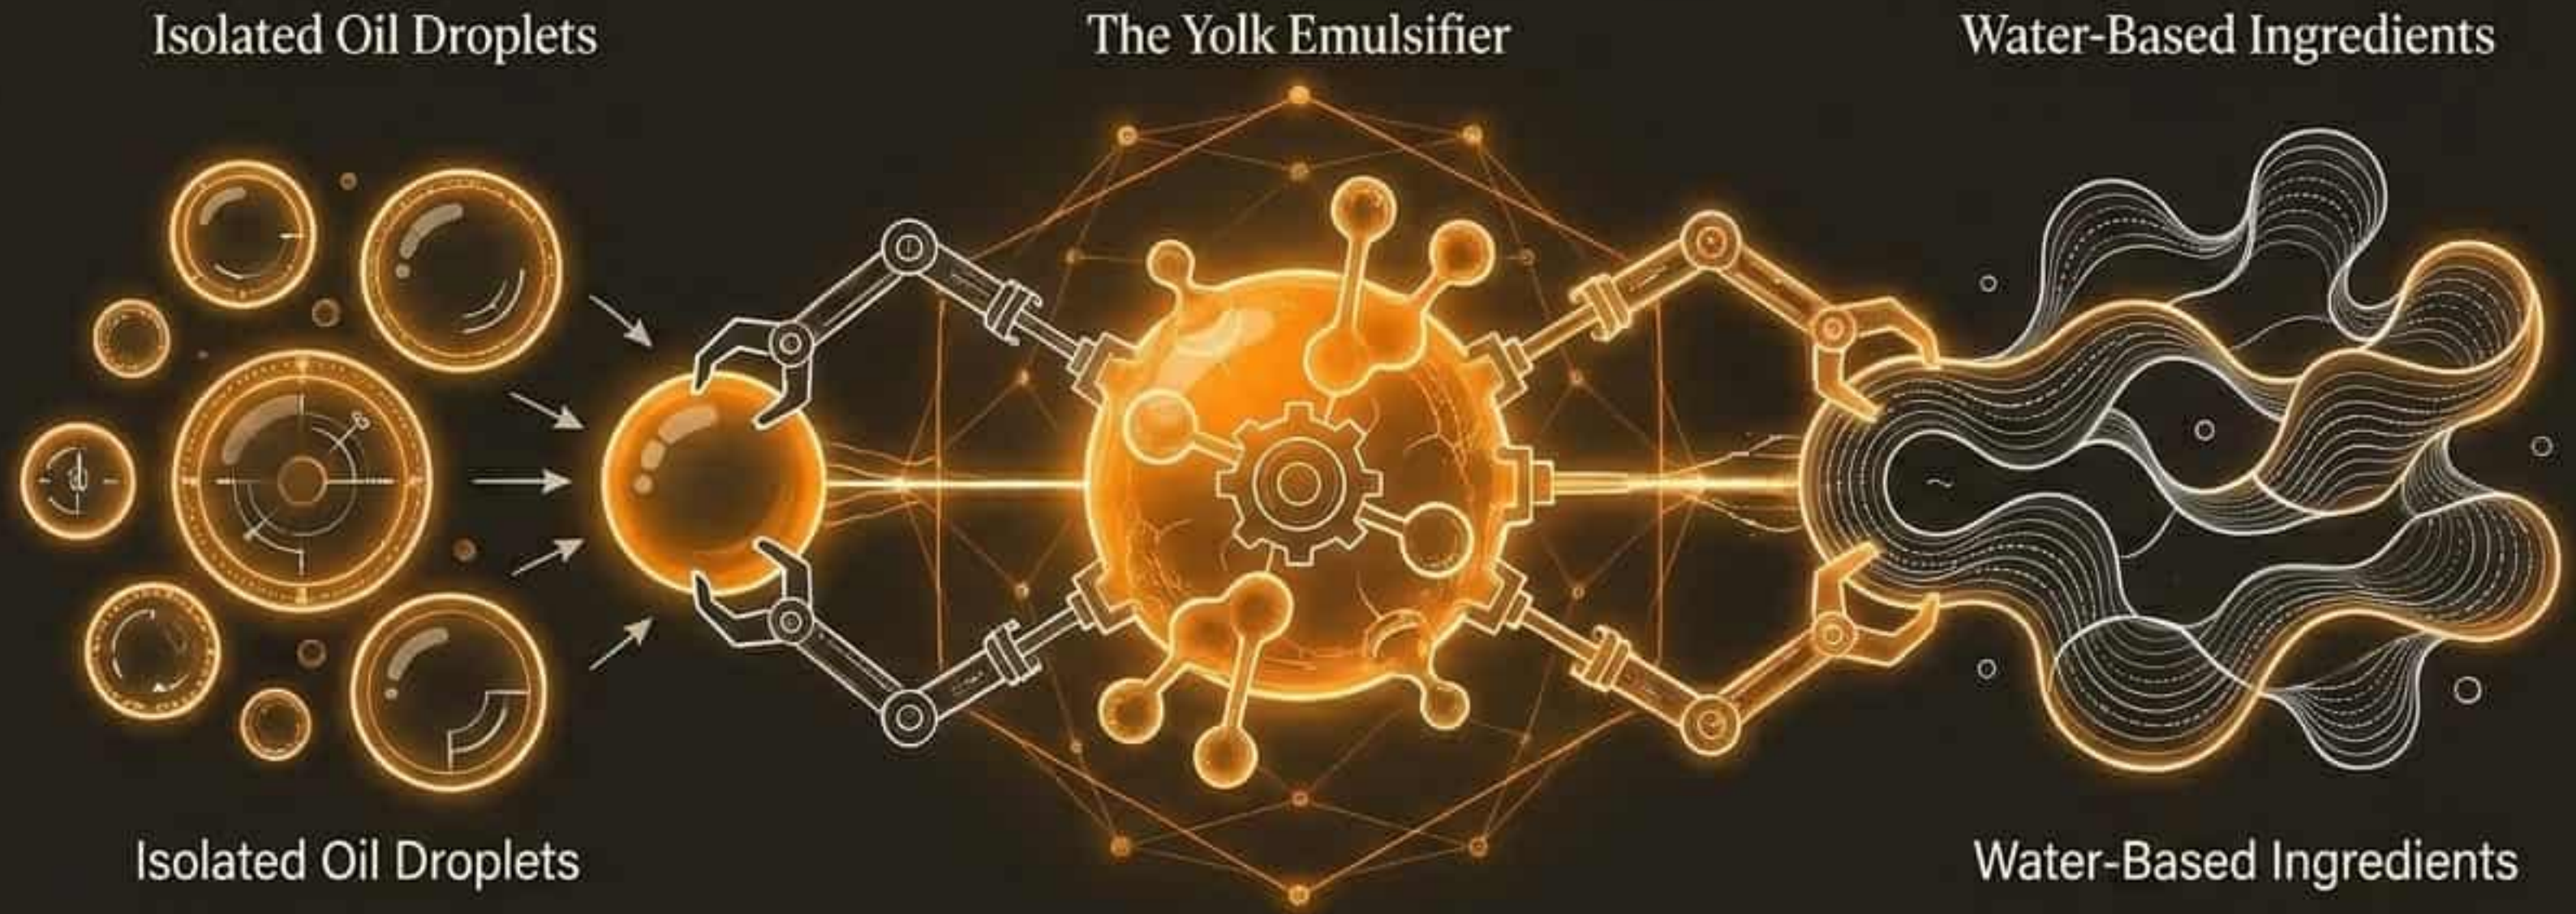

Biological Alchemy: The Equation of Living Bread

The Protein Profile: Measuring Pasture-Raised Superiority

The Kitchen Laboratory: Mechanics of Emulsification

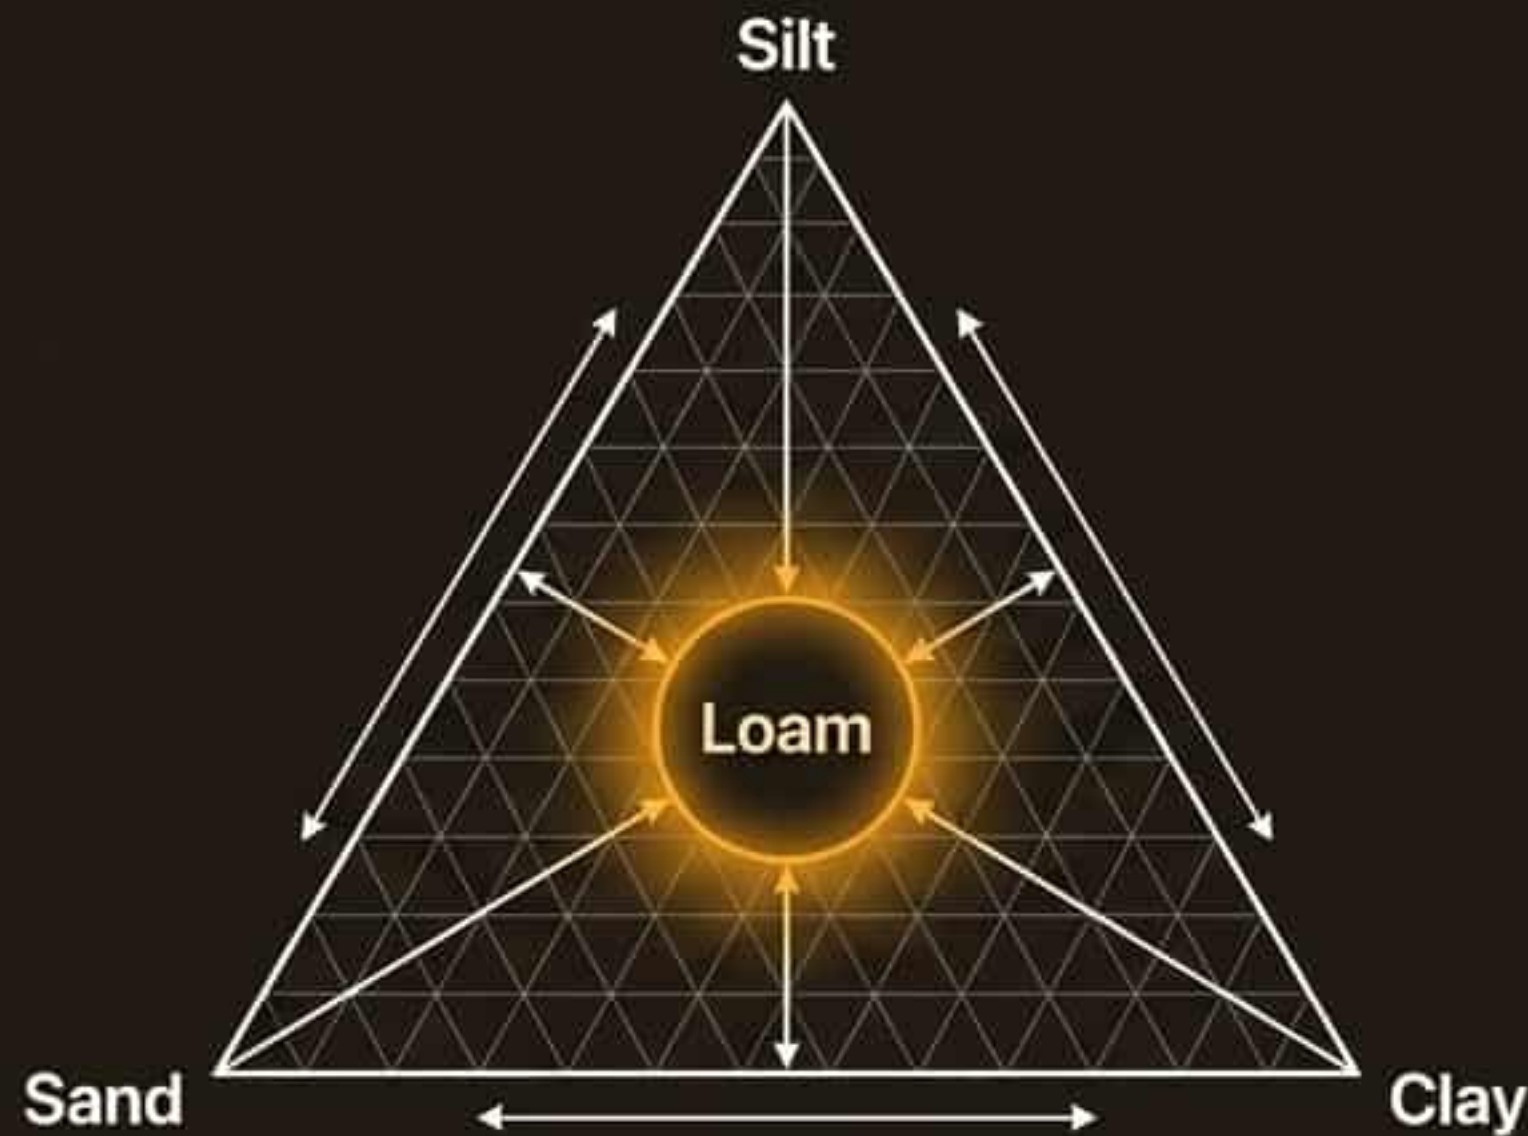

The Mechanism

Utilizing the natural emulsifiers in the egg yolk to act as a chemical bridge, forcing repelling oil and water to physically bind.

The Result

Rainbow Mayonnaise: Transforming distinct liquid elements into a stable, nutrient-dense solid suspension.

Soil Architecture: Constructing the Loam Matrix

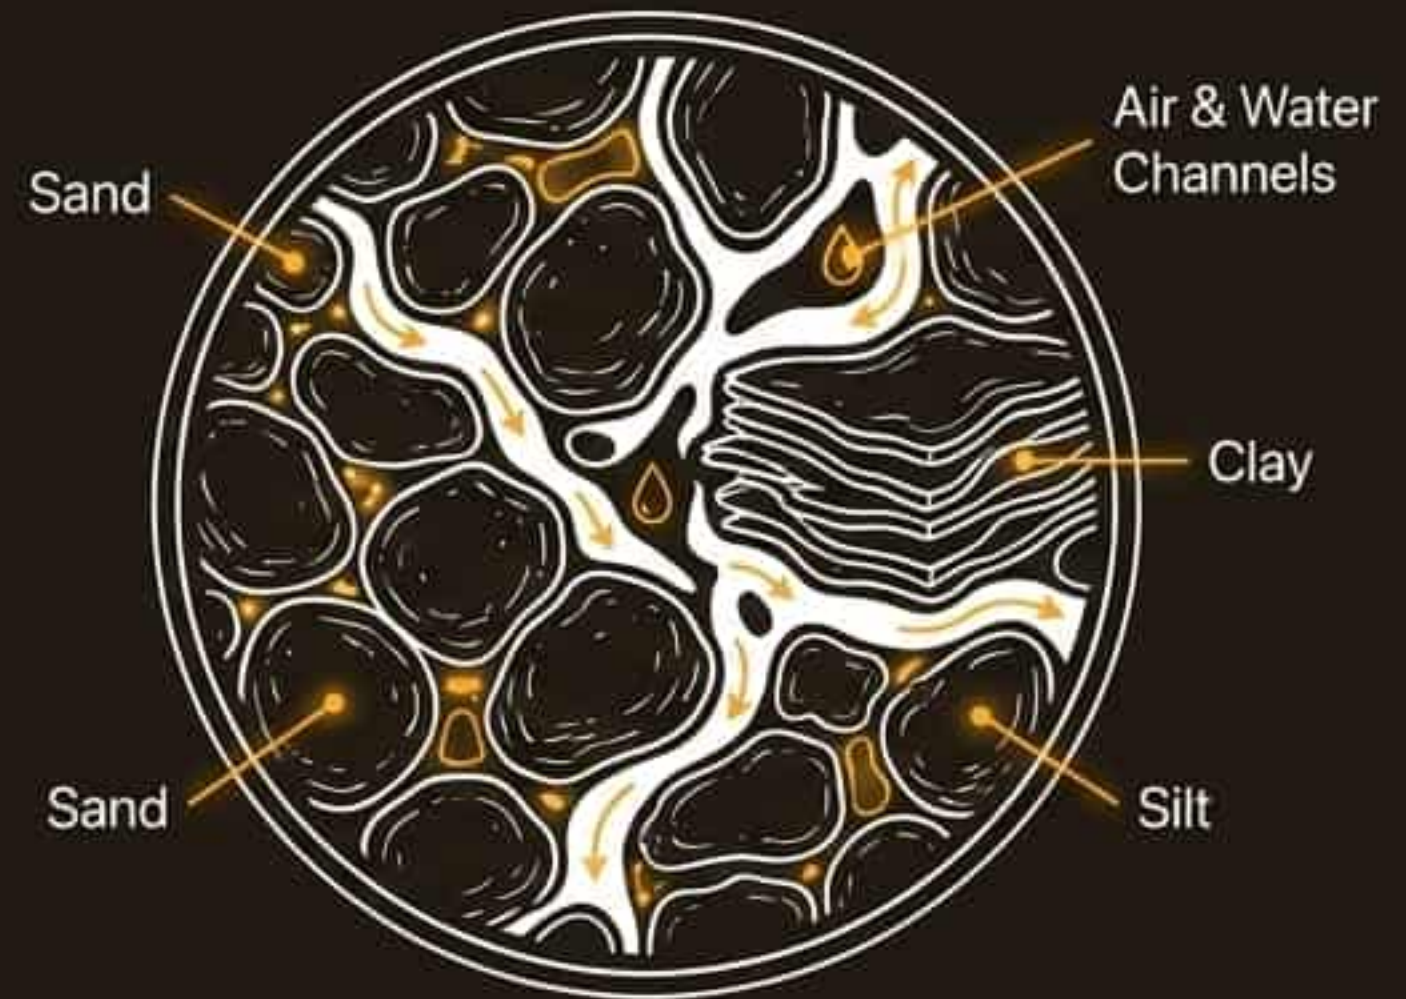

Sand

Provides structural foundation and essential drainage pathways.

Clay

Ensures critical water and chemical nutrient retention.

Microscopic Soil Matrix

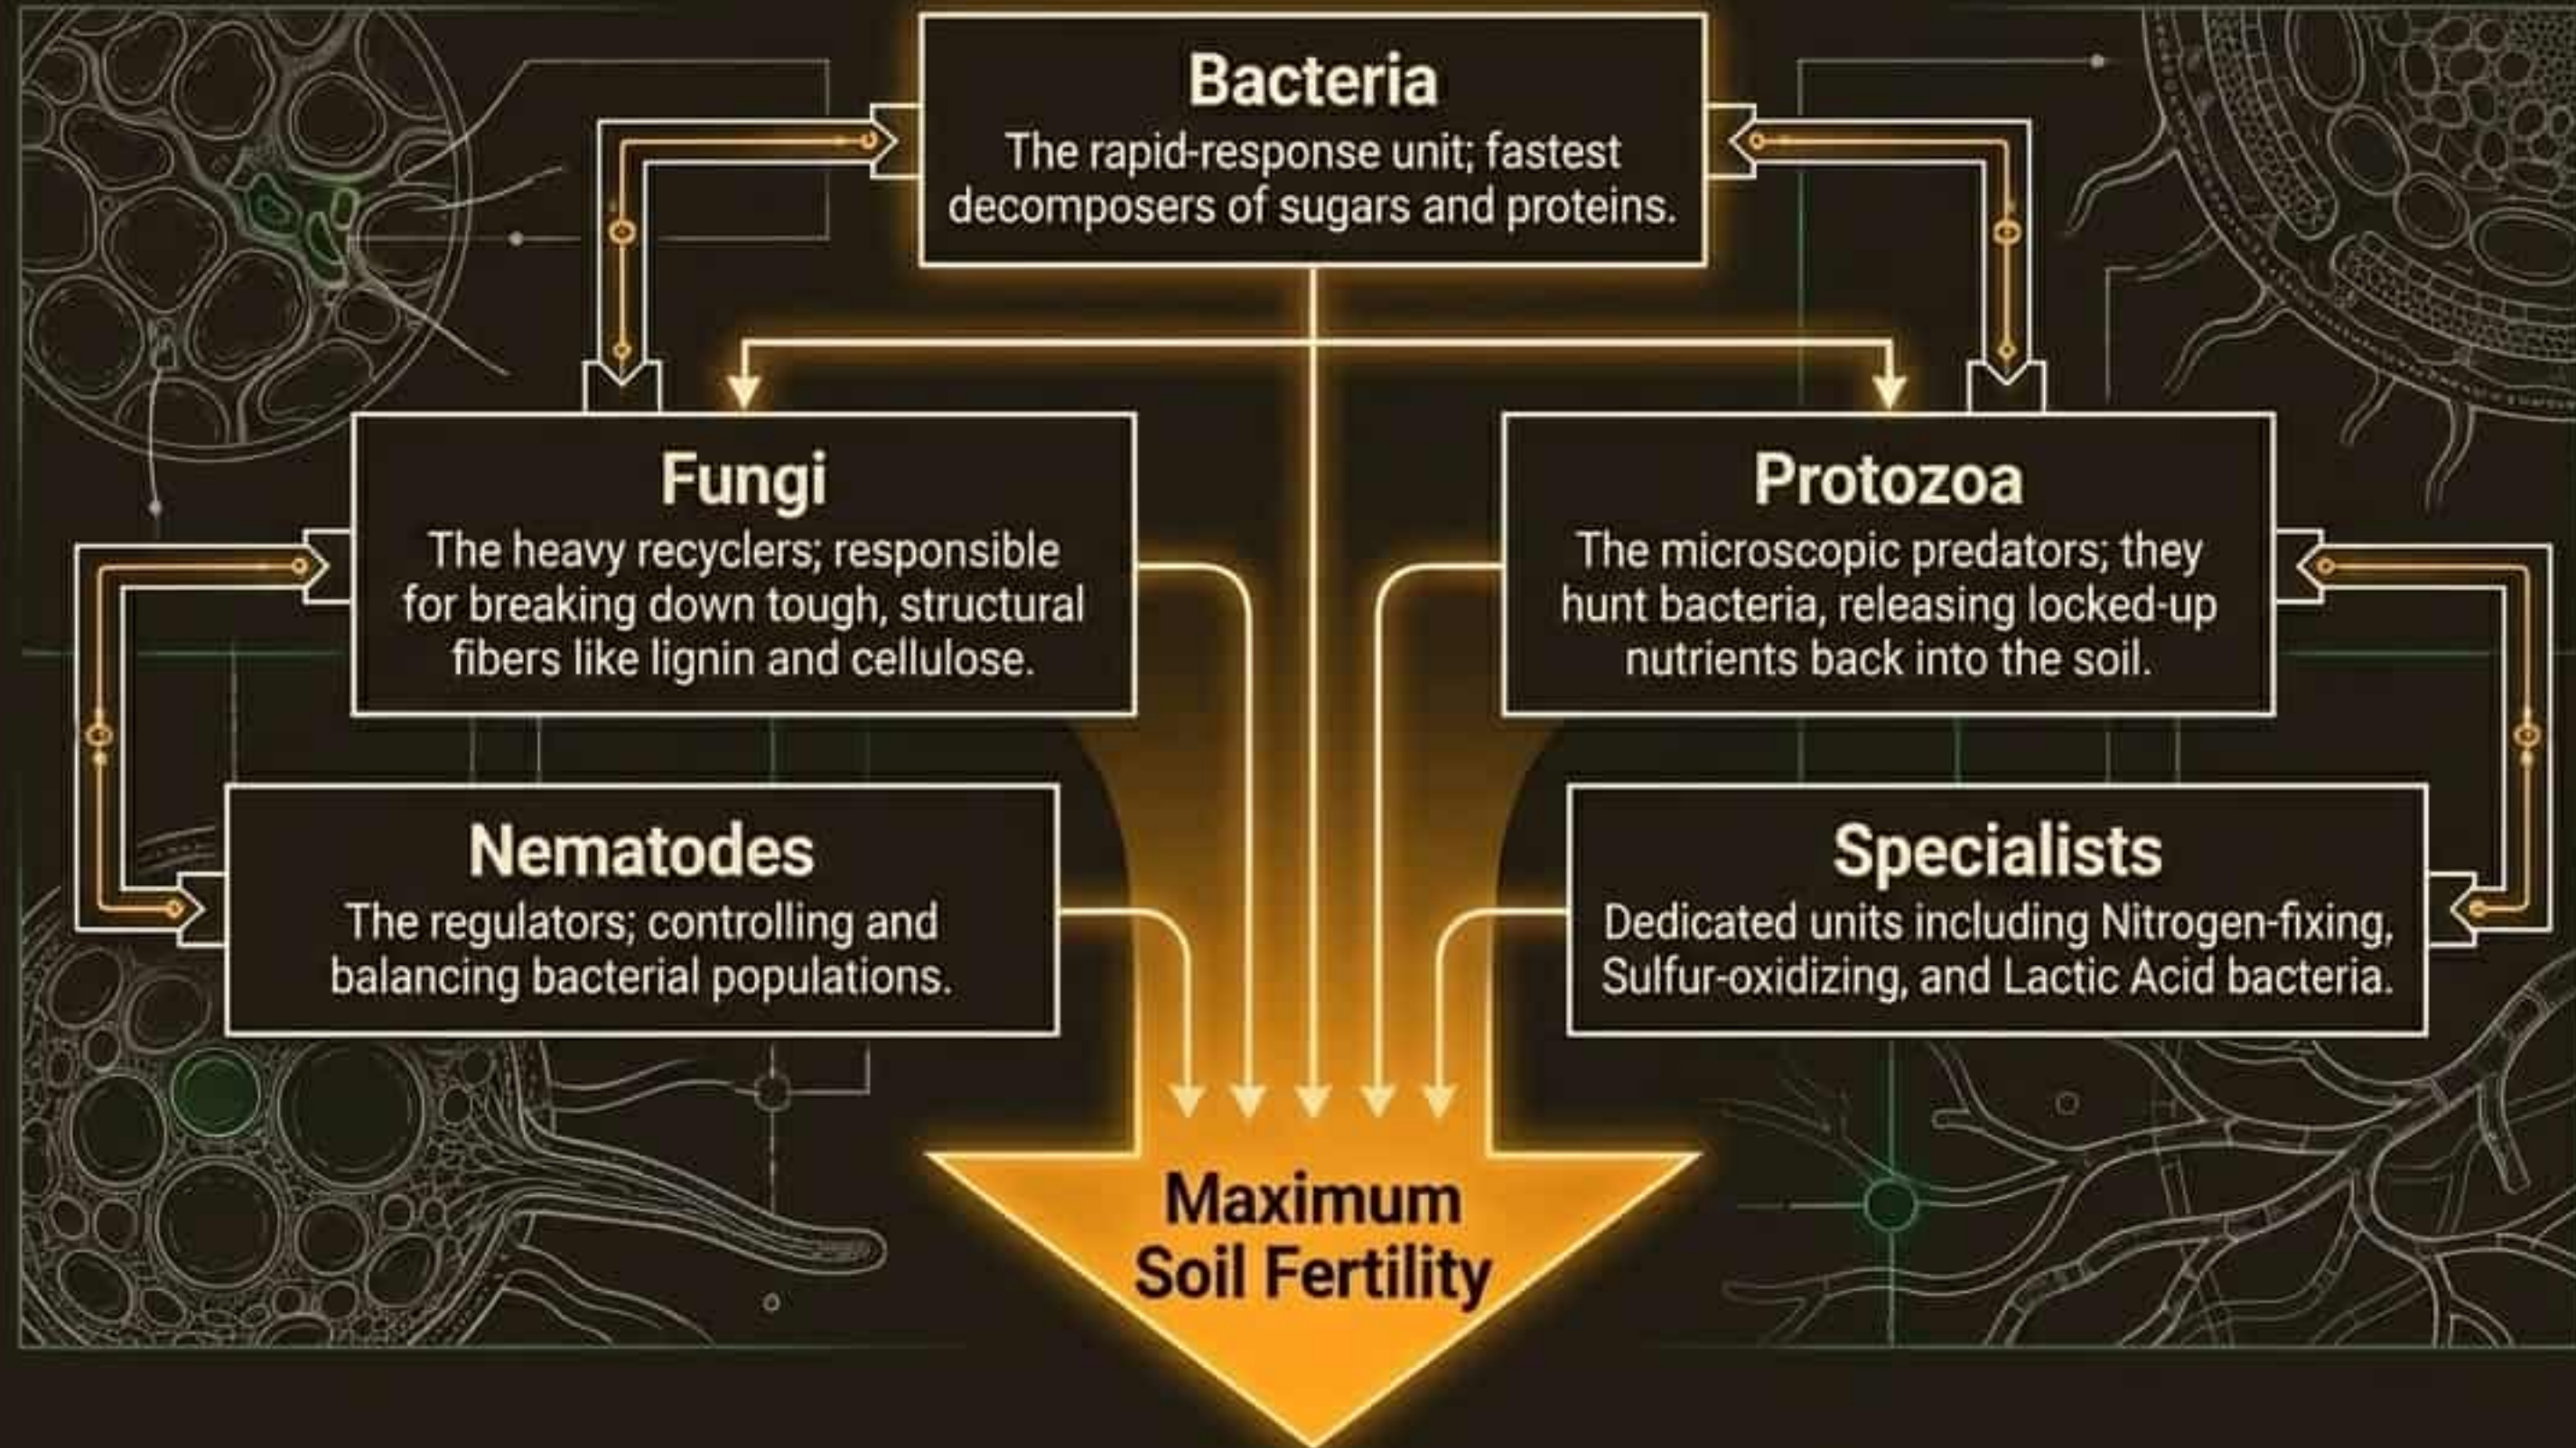

Silt

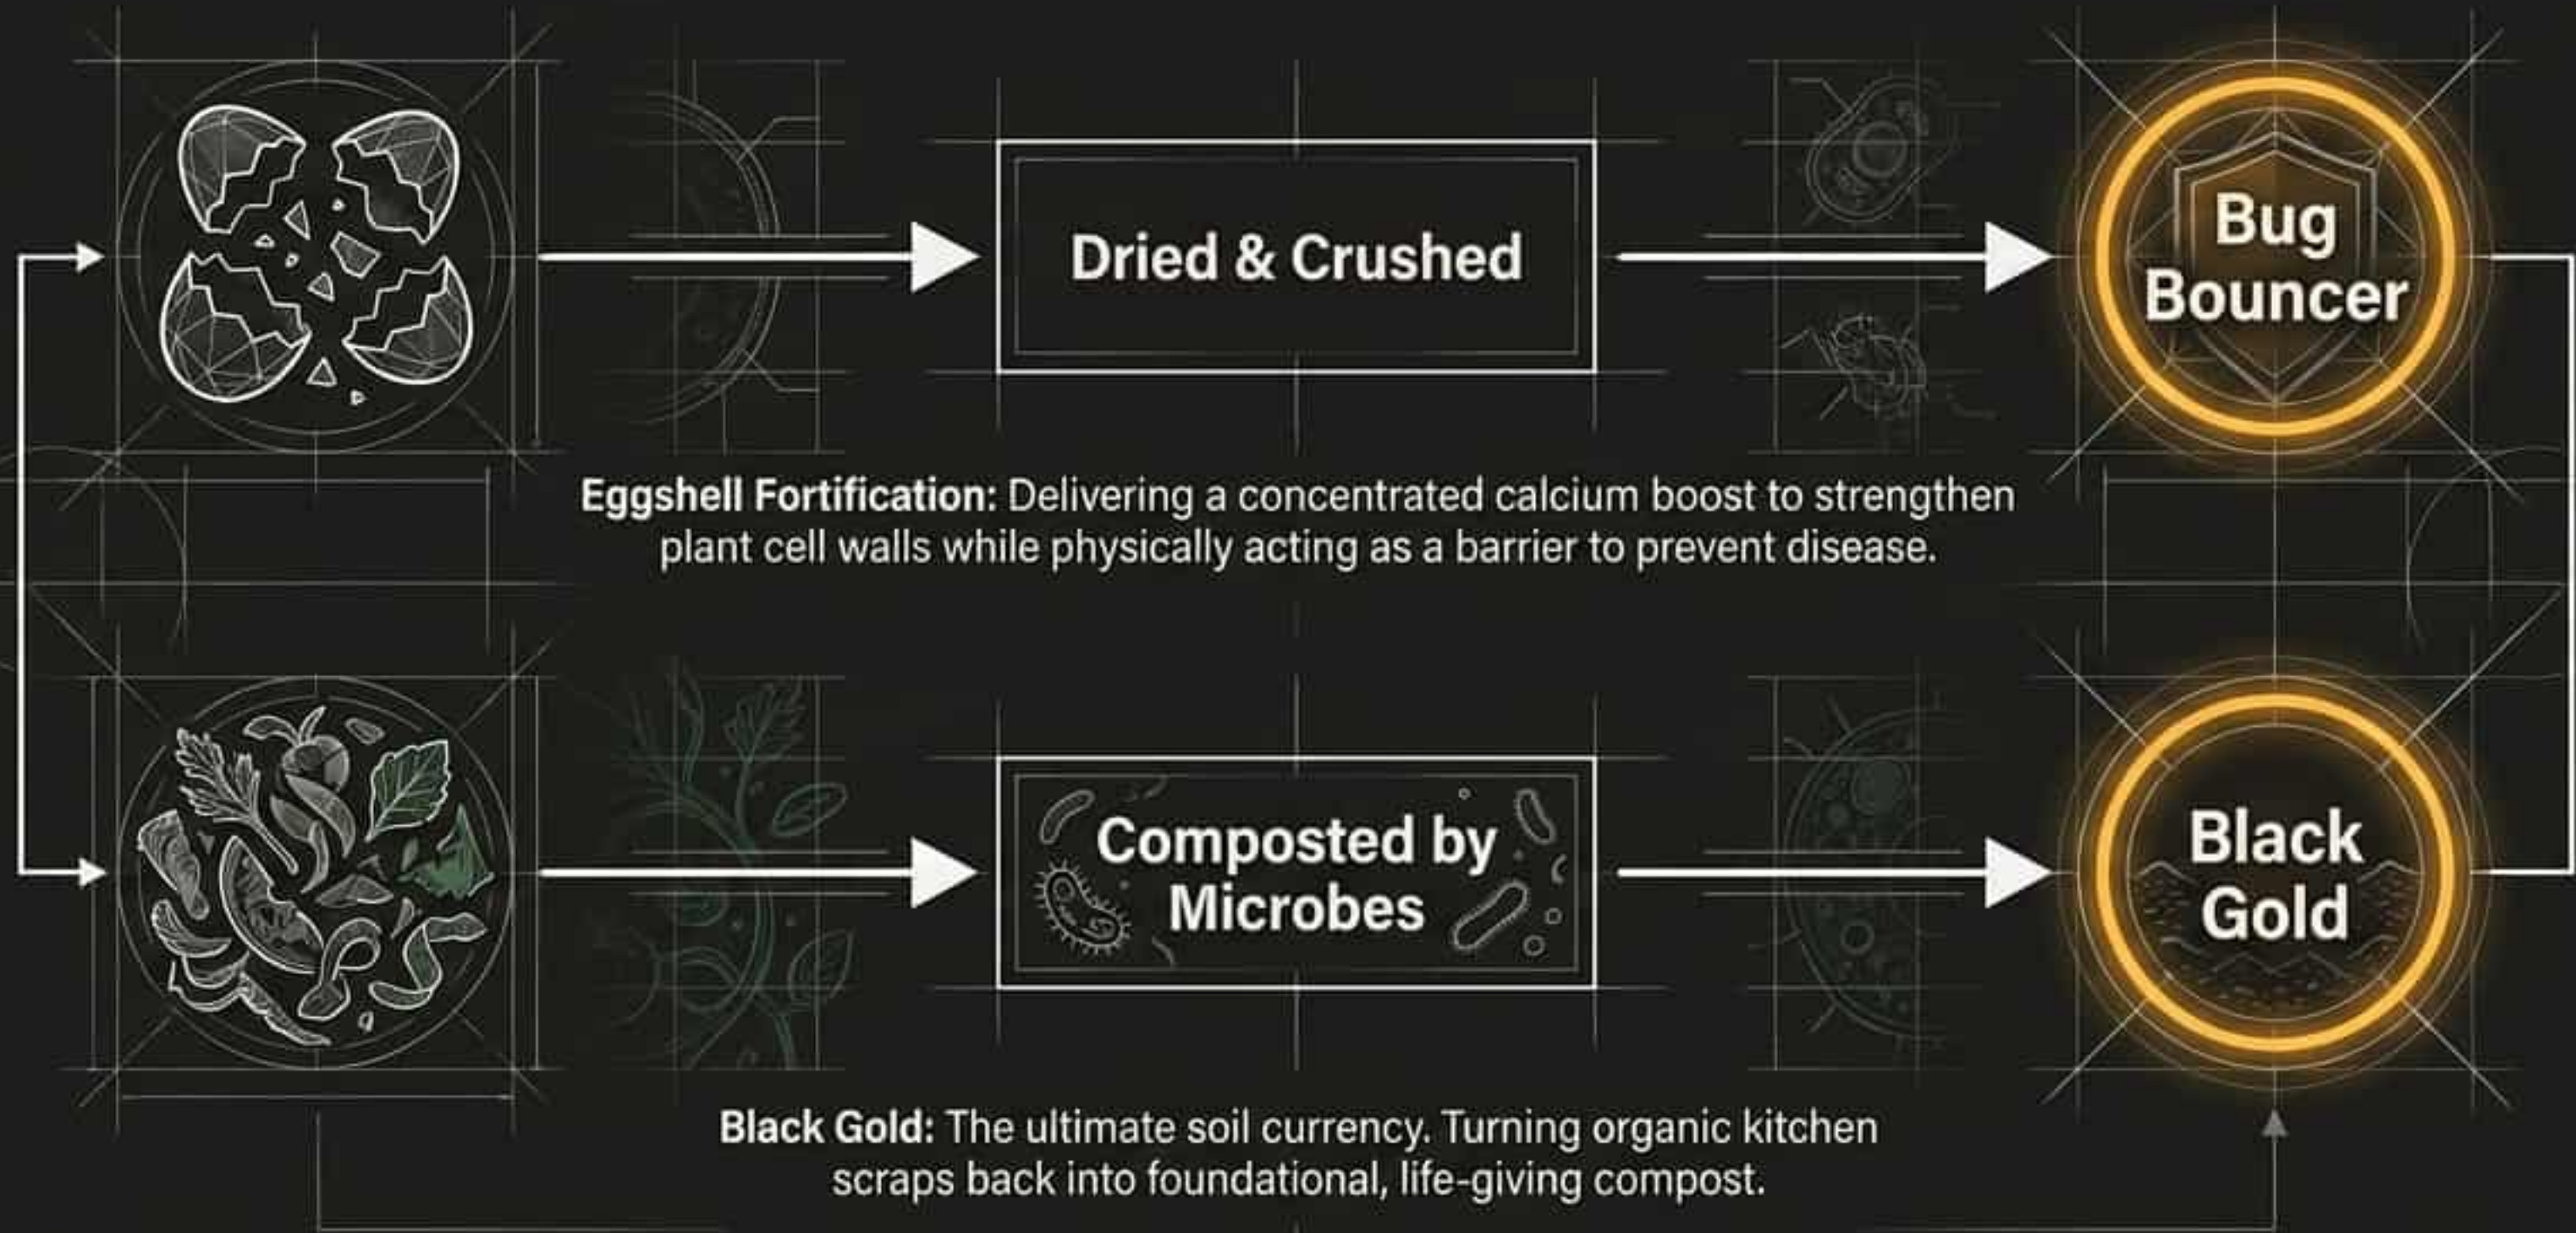

Bridges structural gaps, balancing water retention with crucial microscopic airflow.

Core Insight: Soil is a complex, engineered living ecosystem critical to planetary survival, not merely dirt.

The Microscopic Kingdom: Soil's Special Forces

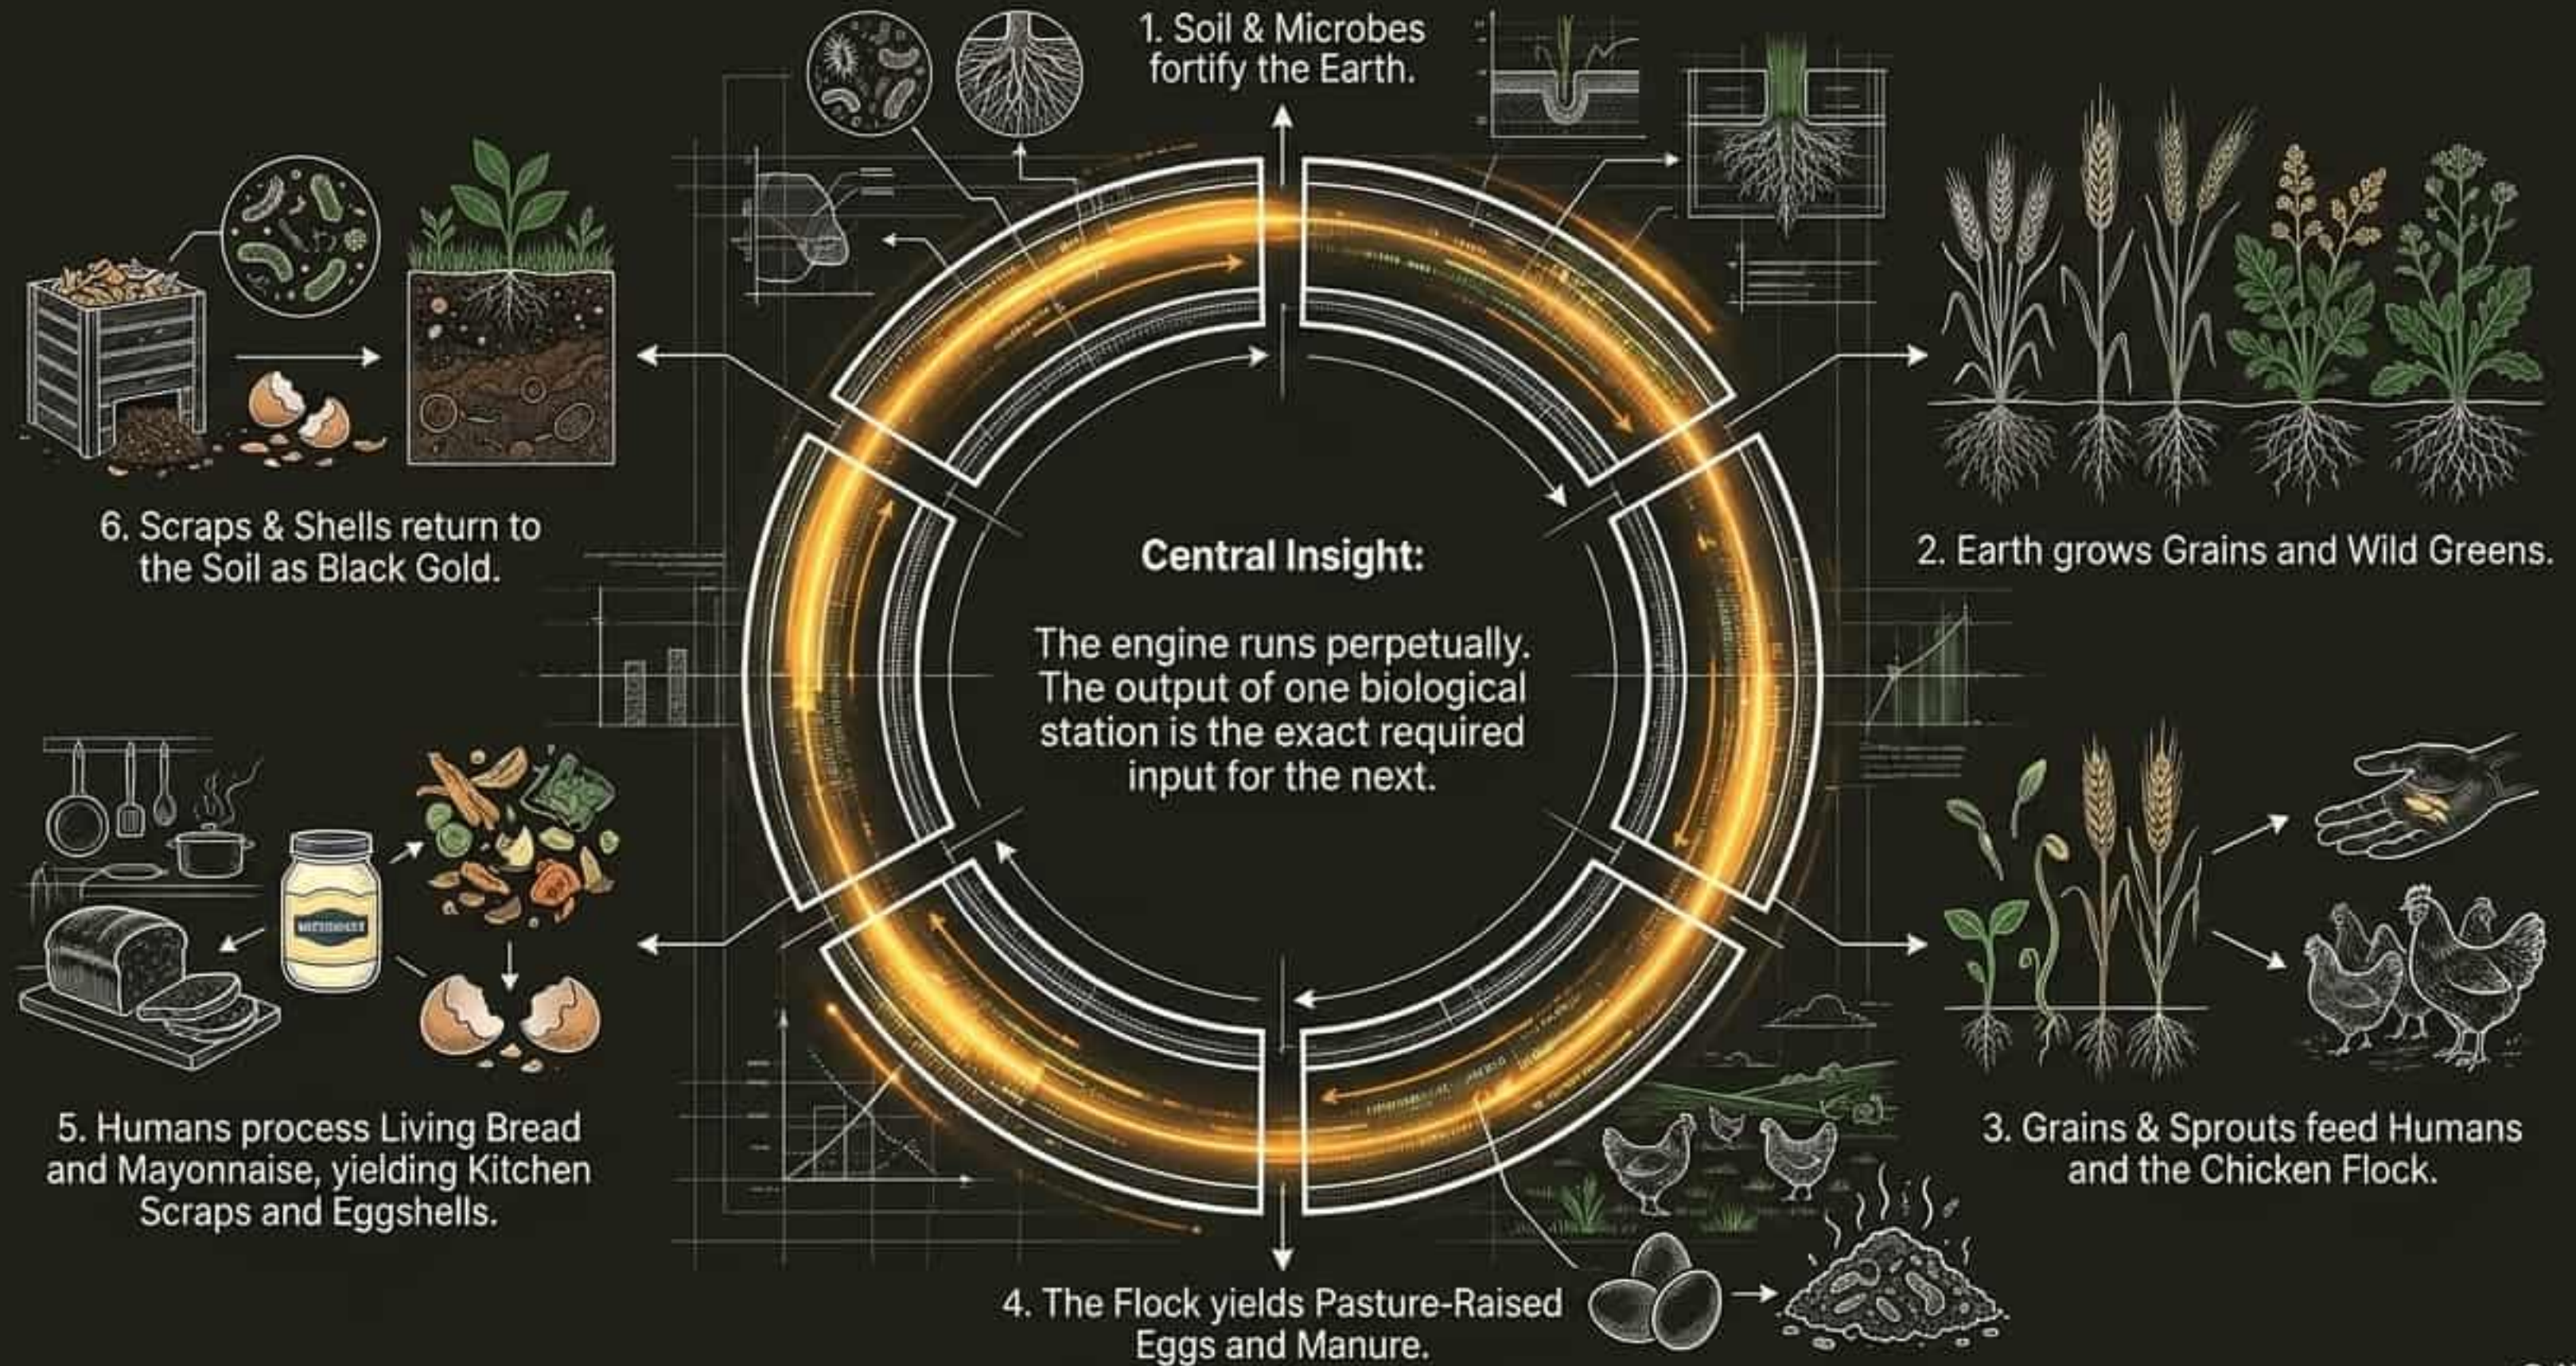

Resource Generation: Fortification and Black Gold

Output equals Input. The definition of a closed-loop system.

The Vitality Flywheel: Closing the Loop

A Legacy of Wisdom

A glowing tree with roots and a glowing cell diagram. The tree's roots are illuminated with a warm, golden light, spreading outwards. To the right of the roots, a detailed diagram of a cell is visible, also glowing with the same golden light. The entire scene is set against a dark background, with a glowing rectangular frame surrounding the central text.

In a regenerative ecosystem,
there are no byproducts.
There are only resources.

Mastery of the Vital Earth blueprint transitions the homestead from an act of mere survival to an engineered legacy of health.
